

NBCE Awarded Excellence in Community Design

The National Board of Chiropractic Examiners' (NBCE) Horace C. Elliott Center was honored by the City of Greeley as a recipient of the 8th annual City of Greeley Excellence in Community Design Award.

The Greeley Planning Commission established this award in 2004 to recognize local building projects on an annual basis. These building projects demonstrate outstanding construction, design and execution. Some of the criteria include:

- Contribution to city design objectives
  - Quality of the environment
    - Innovation
  - Context of the project
- Quality of construction materials
- Interpretation of the design into the final project

Awards are presented to architects, builders, landscape designers and others who have achieved excellence in a local project. The winners are selected by a seven-member panel of judges from the Greeley community.

The award ceremony was conducted at the City of Greeley's September 6th City Council Meeting with Pamela Kurtz, NBCE Director of Administration, accepting the award on behalf of the NBCE.
