

O'CONNOR LEAVES NBCE BOARD

Greeley, Colo. — The National Board of Chiropractic Examiners (NBCE) announced that Lawrence O'Connor, D.C., of Westwood, New Jersey, has completed his term as an NBCE director and has therefore left the NBCE board as of May 2015.

Dr. O'Connor has served on the NBCE board since 2009 when he was appointed as a representative by the Federation of Chiropractic Licensing Boards (FCLB). Dr. O'Connor was later elected as an NBCE At-large Director in 2013.

Dr. O'Connor is a graduate of Sherman College of Chiropractic and has served the profession in many capacities during his career. He served on the FCLB Board of Directors from 2003 to 2015. He served on the New Jersey Board of Chiropractic Examiners, and was the New Jersey representative to the U.S. Presidential Business Committee. Dr. O'Connor was named United States Congressional Physician of the Year in New Jersey in 2002 and 2003.

Dr. O'Connor

In thanking Dr. O'Connor for his contributions, NBCE President Dr. Donna Craft said, "We will miss his leadership and his reasoned responses. Dr. O'Connor has the ability to see past the crisis at hand to the deeper, more important issues and is devoted to always responding to any situation with grace and dignity."

Headquartered in Greeley, Colo., NBCE's mission is: Ensuring professional competency through excellence in testing. Established in 1963, the NBCE develops, administers and scores legally defensible, standardized written and practical examinations for candidates seeking chiropractic licensure throughout the United States and in several foreign countries.